Except for Grammar & Usage, all P.A.S. courses are part of the Core Curriculum, which is required of all LIU Post students for graduation.

Each semester, P.A.S. students are required to have a mid-semester evaluation to assess their progress.

Support Services

- Smaller class sizes for more individualized attention
- Faculty-taught labs (one hour per week for each P.A.S. course)
- Academic tutors
- Individual supervision, guidance and monitoring by P.A.S. administrators
- P.A.S. advisor facilitates course registration

Exiting the Program

Students who complete all program requirements, including the P.A.S. curriculum with a 3.0 cumulative grade point average, automatically exit the program at the end of their first year.

Students who complete their first year with a cumulative grade point average between 2.0 and 3.0 or who do not fulfill the first year requirements will remain in the PAS curriculum during their second year. These students will choose their classes from among the university course offerings; however, each semester, they must include two Core courses. Support services will remain available to these students.

Program for Academic Success

The LIU Post Program for Academic Success (P.A.S.) is run by the Learning Support Center. It was created to assist promising students who do not meet LIU Post admission requirements in achieving academic success. The goal of this one-year academic program is to help students become matriculated without restriction by providing a reduced course load, smaller class sizes, support services and continuous evaluation during the freshman year.

Admission

To be considered for admission into P.A.S., students must complete and submit to the Admissions Office: an LIU admissions application; an official high school transcript and aptitude test scores (either ACT or SAT); a personal statement; and two letters of recommendation. The Admissions Committee will refer appropriate candidates to P.A.S. and notify them by mail.

Candidates will not be considered unless they possess one of the following:

- a minimum 80 high school average
- a minimum score of 480 critical reading or 440 math on the SAT
- equivalent ACT scores

All P.A.S. candidates are required to attend an information/interview session before acceptance. Admission is based on the student's potential and motivation to succeed in a college environment.

P.A.S. students must be full-time students. They are admitted to the university on a restricted basis (12-13 credits per semester) and will remain restricted until they exit the program.
